The Return of the Williston Basin Petroleum Conference to Regina!

May 17, 2022 saw the return of the Williston Basin Petroleum Conference after a more than three year absence. Over 400 people attended from all around North America, including our own Delta CleanTech. On the much anticipated agenda was the discussion of technical innovation surrounding emissions reductions, carbon capture and oil recovery.

“Great to see all of our friends and colleagues again from the Government, academia and the oil patch.”

Jeffrey Allison, President of Delta CleanTech

‘Energy from the Earth’ was the theme for the Williston Basin Petroleum Conference.

Minister of Energy and Resources, Bronwyn Eyre

With a number of exciting projects on the go, Delta is pleased to be a Saskatchewan based company providing carbon capture technologies to the oil industries producing in the Williston Basin. We have recently been meeting with all of the major players involved to establish a strong future together.

Delta will also be meeting with the Minister of Energy and Resources – Bronwyn Eyre in the near future to discuss Delta’s greater involvement in emissions reduction in Sask.
