Delta's Carbon RX Announces the Worlds' 1st Global Indigenous Carbon Summit

Carbon RX, is proud to present the worlds' 1st Global Indigenous Carbon Summit, featuring key speakers and panelists who will focus on First Nations Environmental Sovereignty via the organization and certification of First Nations carbon credits that will become saleable around the world to companies that are committed to ESG and/or Net Zero goals.

About the event:

The International Carbon Summit will take place October 3, 2022, in Regina, Saskatchewan. The event is expected to host several hundred individuals in person with additional virtual attendees from around the world. Attendees will range from Chief and Council, Economic Development officers and businesses interested in learning more about the trends and opportunities in the First Nations carbon economy.

It is estimated 1/3 of global agricultural land is owned by Indigenous communities, therefore, the role of Indigenous agriculture and forest management is instrumental in the movement towards the removal of greenhouse gases which are linked to the cause of climate change.

Stay tuned for more exciting details as we announce the Keynote Speakers and Panelists!
